VIENNA CONFERENCE-PARLIAMENTARY DIS-CUSSION - REASONABLENESS OF THE RUSSIAN PROPOSALS .- The last steamer from across the water brings the intelligence that Earl Grey has given notice in the House of Lords of his intention to offer a resolution declaring that the proposals made by Russia were of such a character might properly have been acceded to by the Killed powers. His resolution will of course elicit a discussion of the whole subject touching the conduct of the Vienna conference; and we think in such a debate it will be difficult to arrive at the conclusion that the course of Russia has been censurable, and that her demands are unreasonable. The Russian negotiators submitted the following propositions as their basis for a treaty of peace:

1. To place the liberties of the Moldo-Walla chians under the joint protectorate of the four powers. In the language of the London Times. "the Russian plenipotentiaries showed a singu lar (!) but laudable zeal that the franchises of the people of these provinces should in no wise be abridged." On this point the Allies were obliged to confess that concessions could no fur-

2. To place the navigation of the Danube or the same footing with that of all the other navigable rivers of Europe, placing its freedom likewise under the protection of a common guarantee, with the express understanding that no Russian fort was to be built at any of its outlets. Here, also, the opposing diplomatists could find nothing more to demand.

3. To open to the military flags of all nations the military passage of the Dardanelles, with the privilege awarded to Turkey of closing those passages against the military flags of all nations, at her pleasure.

These terms the Allies affect to regard as unsat isfactory and worthless-such as they ought to and will not accept. An arrangement of this kind would not, they allege, reduce the preponderance of Russian power in the Black Sea, and therefore they refuse to enter into it. The Allies thus announce to the world that it is to reduce the maritime and commercial power of Russia, and not to vindicate the nationality of Turkey, for which they are waging war on Russia. This truth is rendered more apparent by the fact that the Allies refused to touch upon the negotiation of the fourth point, which relates to the protection of the Christians in Turkey, until the third point was first adjusted. They knew very well that, on that point, there was no room for a difference, because they could not decently refuse to extend to the Christians the protection proposed to be guaranteed by

We cannot but think, that a Parliamentary discussion of the Vienna Congress, in all its details, and the principles on which the demands of the Western Powers are predicated, will result in creating a public sentiment in England. where discussion is free and open, that will force the Allies to conclude a peace with Russia on a just and reasonable basis. The public journals in England are doing good service in the business of diffusing correct views among pe people on this important subject; and we sote the following article from the Manchester Examiner as a specimen. That paper says:

We have not the smallest pretext for fairly charging Russia with the responsibility of rendering peace impossible. War can gain u nothing that Russia was not willing to concede; and if we are to continue the war to force Russia to reduce her navy we have failed to show how that navy is either dangerous or preponde rant. What preponderance is there in the Black Sea but our own?—for Prince Gortschakoff states, in one of the protocols submitted that the whole number of ships maintained by Russia in the Black Sea would not suffice to transport 20,000 men to any point on the Turk ish coast. What is such a force as this con-trasted with that which France and England habitually maintain in the Mediterranean, and which could be made to reach Constantinople as soon as the Russian fleet could traverse the Euxine from Sebastopol? Never was human credulity more imposed upon than by the hyper-bolical declamation by which Russian prepon-derance in the Black Sea has been denounced. Is not our naval supremacy there at this momen a proof that this preponderance is a mere phrase and chimera, not a reality? We are about to renew all the horrors of this disastrous war for the attainment of objects already attained. We are supreme ourselves in the Black Sea, and can be so as long or as often as we choose, and yet we madly persist in blindly urging on this cru-sade against Russia, as if all these palpable truths were the reverse of truth. The failure of the Vienna conferences has afforded fresh excitement to the false medium through which everything connected with the name of Russia is regarded; but the record of the proceedings as detailed in our Parliamentary papers, affords the best evidence that there was quite as much of the spirit of conciliation and moderation displayed by the representatives of the Czar as by the plenipotentiaries of Austria, France, and England.

The Government gives notice that it i prepared to pay the awards of commissioners under the convention between the United States and Great Britain.

CHRISTIAN UNIVERSITY IN LEWIS COUNTY, instruction are the same to all, of both sexes, Mo.-We have, on several occasions, referred to the Christian labors in this city, of Elder D. P. Henderson, of Missouri. In one of these notices we spoke of the high position of this excellent man, as a philanthropist. His labors of love toward the human race have not only been of the earnest, sincere, and ennobling character that belong to true-hearted men, but they have been highly appreciated by the people of Mis souri. We also referred in our notice to Elder Henderson's project for a Christian University, and we purpose now to say something on the admirable location and plan of that Institution.

The Christian University was chartered in 1853 by the Legislature of Missouri. The charter is a liberal one, containing all the provisions usually granted to the most favored schools of learning. No limit is fixed to the amount of cash or stocks that may be owned by the University. Two-thirds of the Board of Trustees are required to be members of the Church of Christ, resident in the State of Missouri.

The University is located near the town of Canton, in Lewis county, Mo. The Institution is west and southwest of Canton and the city of De Soto, one mile from the Mississippi river, forty miles above Hannibal, twenty-five miles below Keokuk, and two hundred miles above St. Louis. Lewis county is on the northeast border of the State, and is destined to be one of the most thrifty counties in Missouri. Its soil is remarkably fertile; it is prairie on rock and is watered by the rivers Fabius and Wyaconda. The census returns of 1850 show that it is a fine region for cattle, grain crops, grasses, and sheep. The beautiful bend of the Mississippi river, on the eastern border of the county, adds to the picturesque character of the region. From the dome of the University the eye commands a view of Keokuk, in Iowa, Quincy, in Illinois, Monticello, the county seat of Lewis, and a steamer may be seen in its whole run of fortyfive miles from Keokuk to Quincy.

The trustees of the Christian University own fifty-eight acres of land, extending back from the bluff of the Mississippi. On the opposite side of the river, they own a fractional quarter section of land and the ferry rights at that point between Illinois and Missouri. They have built a steam ferry-boat, which is already making a fine dividend upon the investment. The proceeds go to the University. The hunting and fishing facilities are remarkably good, thus securing the students healthful and innocent recreation and exercise.

The people of Missouri have liberally responded to the efforts of Elder D. P. Henderson for building up this great University. Lewis county raised a sum that is ample for finishing the building. It will accommodate 500 students. The chapel will comfortably seat 1,500 persons and 2,000 can be crowded in its spaces. In addition to the funds for finishing the edifice, $60,000 toward the endowment have been raised, and this sum is drawing an interest of six per cent. The organization of the faculty will not be made until the entire endowment of $150,000 is secured. Nearly one-half of this is already secured and we should not suppose that it would take such a man as Elder Henderson long to raise the remainder. The object is so commendable, the purpose so great, and Mr. Henderson has such capacity for winning the love and confidence of all who form his acquaintance that we look upon the endowment of the Christian University as one of the certainties of the future. If any word of ours were needed to aid this noble enterprise we should cheerfully give it; for he that gives toward securing educational facilities, accompanied by religious training, does much to perpetuate republican institutions, to promote the public welfare, and to secure the happiness of the people. No other investments can secure such healthful, permanent, and substantial blessings. The Empire State of this Confederacy is at this moment deriving more benefit from De Witt Clinton's early recognition of the claims of education, and his enlarged liberality for securing its advantages to the children of the State, than from those magnificent projections for facilitating intercommunication between the seaboard and the Great West which have linked his name with immortality. Great, and deservedly great as is the fame of that immortal statesman, founded upon his far-reaching sagacity, the ability of his counsels, and the success of his schemes for enlarging the prosperity of the State of New York by internal improvements, if we could envy any part of his well and honestly earned reputation, we should covet that which rests upon the system of public instruction in the Empire State. That is a basis that will outlive the Erie

The Christian University of Missouri is one of the noblest enterprises of the day. It embraces within its range powers for a thorough education in every desirable field of learning, and the religion of the Bible is a portion of its means of developing the true and well regulated forces of the intellect. For we cannot but believe that the mere polishing of the intellect without religious training is the preparation of an armed madman. The statistics of crime in France, compared with those of England or America, amply confirm this view. And, in addition to all the other merits of the Christian University of Missouri, there is one that stands conspicuous. We allude to the ample system of instruction for females in this institution. Under the arrangements of this University, girls who may desire to do so may range through the same departments of learning that are open to the other sex. The buildings for the instruction of the sexes are separate, but the courses of I shall start on the 13th or 25th inst.

In fact, the female college is considered such an essential element of progress, and is really so vital to of the law. The letters opened caused the arthe philanthropic movements of this age, that it rest of the post-master at New Orleans. will be the first object of the solicitude of the trustees. Those girls who may wish to confine their studies to that arbitrary and barbarous circle called "woman's sphere" can do so, but those who may desire to walk hand in hand with all the masters of the past, through all departments of learning, will find every facility for the object guaranteed to them in this University. We are pleased to learn that the institution will commence its labors with a professorship devoted to anatomy, physiology, and hygiene, sciences in which every educated female should be thoroughly instructed.

A very few years' experience of the advantages of this institution will satisfy the people of Missouri, Illinois, and Iowa that it is worth infinitely more than its cost to them. Indeed, the whole West must feel its benefits and we hold that Kentucky is largely interested in its success. But let not Missouri miss its uses, even if she should have to shoulder the whole burden of the endowment. She will possess a treasure far more valuable than the placers of California. The portions of Illinois and Iowa contiguous to the northeastern portion of Missouri will enjoy the advantages of the Christian University.

The preparatory department of this University will open this fall or the following spring. Professor H. H. White, formerly of Bacon College in this State, has been elected Professor of Natural Philosophy, Astronomy, Civil Engineering, &c. Prof. R. A. Grant is Professor of Mathematics. These are all the officers that have been, as yet, elected. The first department of the University is a Female College. The foundation of that building will be laid next year. From what we know of its projection, we are confident in saying that it will be one of the most beautiful and commodious buildings of its kind in the West.

We wish Mr. Henderson abundant success in his noble efforts to establish this University. It will be a monument of the progress of the Christian philanthropy of the age, of the enlightened wisdom that projected it, and of the enlarged liberality of the Great West that fostered and sustained the effort. And we have no doubt that it will prove to be a permanent blessing to the land and one of the great securities that will bind the people to the perpetuation of the free principles of this republic.

> [For the Louisville Bulletin.] THE EXILE AMIDST THE GRAVES. BY THE HERMIT OF ST. EIRENE.

"Das Grab ist tief und stille."-v. SALIS. The night is near. I sit alone beneath The shade of willows, weeping o'er the grave Of one I loved, a friend whose soul hath gone To better life than this the world can give.

The falling leaves around me tell that soon
The trees shall stand with naked branches, stripped Of all their verdant beauty. Flowers bend Their faded crowns to earth and seem to mot The loss of fragrance, never more regained, And birds in melancholy plaintive lay Appear to lull themselves to restand sleep, In mourning still the past departed day.
The noise of toil is heard no more, and all
The weary workmen, homeward bound, they go
To see the gladd'ning smiles of those they love.

The humblest home hath joys and pleasures sy To hearts that love.

I sit alone and weep. To me no home is given. Friendless here Amidst the graves of those departed, swells My heart in grief. My weary soul doth long For Death, as nature seems to breathe but Death And Death around me.

Amidst the graves, and hear the silent voice That seems to rise from depths of rest and speak To me of Peace unknown without their vault Oh, here beneath the humblest stone as well As neath the splendid mansoleum rests A brother. Vanity, display, may try To cover dust and ashes, marble vaults

And pillars vainly show the different ranks That here on earth will separate the rich,
The highly stationed ones, from those that were Forever struggling, bread to win to still Their hunger. Here beneath the grass they lie And slumber all in Peace—the homeless one, That searched in vain on earth a shelt ring roof, The poor, unloved, despised, enslaved, and those That sat on thrones, in gorgeous halls of wealth Whose names were heard from pole to pole, and stood On glory's zenith-here they are.

My heart! what ails thyself, and why dost thou Compel my tears in grief to flow? Thy pangs Will soon be ended. Loneliness no more Within the grave shall burden thee, and soon The voice of Death, the peaceful angel, will Resound to call thyself to part for HOME. PITTSBURG, Pa., April, 1855

The ship Leopold I, Cept. Geberding, arrived at New York from Antwerp, having on board 367 passengers, the majority of whom are reported to be paupers by the Amarican consul at Antwerp. The vessel, by orders of the Commissioners of Emigration, has been stopped at quarantine until the proper authorities investigate the truth of the charges against the passengers, which, if found true, will probably cause their immediate return to the port from whence they came at the expense of the consignees. The Leopold I has a cargo of bricks on board and is bound for Havana.

The steamship Arago, which sailed on Saturday from New York for Havre, took out 215 passengers and $489,621 in speccie. Among the passengers were Prince Jerome Bonaparte, G. W. Kendall of the N. O. Picayune, Count de Diau, and Hon. A. Vail.

Suddenly yesterday morning (4th inst.), at Grahampton, Meade county, Ky, Carrie S., wife of Orville M. Anderson.

Sad indeed is the task of paying the last tribute of fond affection to the memory of the loved dead. The remembrance of joyous hours passed with her, whose form now lies in the icy grasp of death, brings forth the heart's tears, and unavailing grief can but give its full offering of sympathy to those bereaved ones, who need more than human consolation. Cut off in the rosy morn of life, when every thing that gives to life its happiness was placed within her grasp, her pure soul has fied to its Maker, and her innocent babe, scarce breathing the sinful air of earth, has gone before to welcome her to the realms of blessedness. Kind mistress, foad mother, loving wife, uniting the attributes of a Christian to the womanly virtues, relentless death could show no pity to thy friends, but spared thee its sting Gently, as the new-born babe sleeps its first sleep, she sank into the embrace of death, and the unconscions mother knew not that the loved form she watched so well had lost its price-less tressure, until long after the freed soul rejoiced before the Redeemer, or perhaps sorrowfully hovered over the bereaved ones, wistfully pining to assuage the deep grief her loss would cause.

Embued with all the loved characteristics which should adorn the female mind, Carrio attracted around her a circle of friends, whose sincere sorrow will testify the depth of their affection. Early trained in the precepts of piety, the few faults which nature gave to her were eradicated and chastened by the desire of walking in the paths of the righteous, and no unkind word or hasty act can serve as a reproach to her memory in the minds of those who knew and loved her best.

Peace to thy ashes, dear Carrie, for thy loss will long be felt, and thy memory cherished by those whom thou hast left for a better world.

Mr. Ingersol says that around the edges of the lake the salt can be gathered in baskets, and is of as good quality as ever he found in any other part of the United States. Mr. Ingersol also says that near the lake there are large beds of coal of the first quality.

The French Crystal Palaces .- The two buildings erected for the World's Exhibition in Paris cover an area of 962,000 feet, or more than twenty-two acres. This is 32,900 square feet larger than the London Crystal Palace. The great hall is three-quarters of a mile long (3,950 feet), and is the largest in the world.

The arbitration committee of the New York corn and flour exchange has the same power conferred upon it by a special act of Legislature, as appertain to arbitrators by the laws of the State, with the addition that the judgment directed by them in any case is not subject to be removed, reversed, modified, or appealed from by the parties interested in its submission. The tendency of this, it is thought, will be to obviate much unnecessary litigation.

More Outrages on the Canal - Canal Bank Cut Away and Aqueduct Burned by a Mob-Reward for the Governor's Head-Lynching and Threats of Lynching, &c.—A short time since we published the fact that a large body of ruffians of Clay and Vigo counties had cut away the bank of the Birch Creek reservoir, and that they threatened dire vengeance on those who should attempt to repair the breach. The Governor issued a proclamation, which we published, offering rewards for the perpetrators of The scoundrels sent a formal nothe outrage. The scoundrels sent a formal notice to the resident trustee at Terre Haute, that, if an attempt were made to repair the canal, it would be at the risk of the lives of the men sent, and that the canal would be cut away for a long distance in the neighborhood of the reservoir. Notwithstanding these threats, a State boat was sent to the reservoir last Tuesday, with twenty armed laborers, under charge of Mr. Higgens. They worked all Tuesday without interruption.

Wednesday night the canal bank was cut way on Summit Level, 18 miles below Terre Haute, and boats on the level coming down, at once made their way back to Terre Haute with much difficulty. The aqueduct over Birch creek, near the reservior as was that part of the canal cut away, was burned down the same night a guard of the poor deluded scoundris standing by to prevent interruption during the fire. It was also understood they intended to cut away the old reservior, on the opposite side of the canal to the other, and perform other acts of villainy. As an exhibition of their con-tempt for the Governor and his proclamation. they stuck up a notice offering a high reward the Governor's head.

On Tuesday night the boat was surrounded by men with blackened faces, who during the night kept up a continual firing of guns about the boat. These ruffians held a meeting about a mile from the boat during Tuesday night, and drew up a statement of their complaints and resolutions of a threatening nature. In the morning a copy of these was found stuck up on the boat, with a warning that the laborers would be allowed seven hours to take away the earth they had replaced in the reservoir bank, and one hour after that to leave, and that the canal would be cut away and the Birch Creek Aqueduct burned the away and the flirch Creek Aqueduct burned the following night. The laborers, who had been during the whole night expecting an attack, took the seven hours for at once making tracks from the neighborhood instead of undoing their work of the day previous.

It was reported at Terre Haute Friday morning that this mob had destroyed the two locks at the junction. They left written not ces at the doors of persons in their neighborhood who regarded their acts with disapproval, that if they gave any information as to the perpetrators of these cowardly acts, or had anything to say on the subject, they would be at once taken out and lynched. It was reported at Terre Haute that the owner of a mill in this neighporhood had, for some of his language of disapproval, been severely lynched by scourging, and was told that if he interfered any further his mill would be burnt to the ground. A number of coal beats were left high and dry.

> Agricultural Division of the Patent Office .-The Catawissa Raspberry.—The Ca awissa raspberry originated in the grave-yard of a little Quaker meeting-house in the village of Catawissa, Columbia county, Penn., situated near the confluence of the Catawissa and Susquehanna rivers. The fruit is of medium size, in ferior to many of the new popular varieties, but is sufficiently large for all economical purposes. Its color is dark-reddish purple when ripe, and is of a very high flavor. It bears most abundantly after the young wood, on which it produces its best fruit, attains a height of four or five feet, usually beginning to ripen early in August, and even sooner. The fruit is produced on branches continually pushing out from all parts, successively appearing in the various stages of growth, from the blossom to perfect maturity; and often there may be counted more than fifty berries on one branch. As the fruit of each branch successively ripens, the later ones gradually diminish in size; but there is no suspension of blooming or fruiting before the plant is checked by frost. If protected indoors it undoubtedly would produce fru tduring the winter months.

> One great advantage of this over other varie-ties of the raspberry is, that if the stocks should be accidentally broken or cut off, or should be killed by winter frost, it is all the better for the crop. Another advantage is, that, from a small space of a few yards well cultivated, a daily essert for a small family would always be a hand for from three to four months of the year Insects injurious and beneficial to vegetation .-It may not generally be known that the Commis sioner of Patents, Judge Mason, has had employed in this branch of the office Mr. Townend Glover, an artist and naturalist of distinction, for the purpose of investigating the habits of the insects injurious and beneficial to crops, and illustrating the same with the view of describing them, with the remedies for their diminution of destruction, and all other information on the subject, in the agricultural reports. He has re-cently left for Florida, where he will pass several months studying the insects pernicious or heneficial to rice, tobacco, sugar cane, orange, and the cotton plant, and also to discover the cause and remedy, if practicable, of the white rot in the live oak. Mr. Glover has been engaged during the year past in watching the op-erations of the rice and cotton insects in the Carolinas, Georgia, and Alabama, the corn and grain insects of the middle and northern States, general, as well as numerous insects beneficial to the farmer.

Many of the insects referred to above he has engraved on stone, which are now in progress of printing, and will illustrate the next agricultural report. As this subject is one of unusual interest, and will tend to the benefit of all sec tions of the Union, we trust the indefatigable efforts of this gentleman will receive the hearty co-operation of the agriculturists throughout the country, and his labors be crowned with success.

New Products Proposed to be Introduced into the United States.—We copy the following extract of a letter from a gentleman in New York. which from the novelty of the suggestion and the utility which might arise therefrom may be read with interest:

"So much has been said lately of the climate of the Crimea, and of the suffering of the be-sieging army at Sebastopol, that it has brought to mind the very different account that some travelers heretofore have published respecting -at least the more southern part of the penin sula—leaving the impression of its enjoying a temperature almost tropical, where the vine, the fig, and the olive flourished without protection. Of the latter product, I remember reading in Annales de Froment that in the imperial garden at Nikita, in the Crimea, they cultivate two and the olive flourished without protection. varieties of the olive, which are able to resist the most rigorous frosts of that region. How valuable an acquisition would not these be for our Southerly States, from North Carolina downwards; and would it not be well for the United States Patent Office to add them to the rous lists of trees about to be introduced Let me here suggest, in respect to the olive, that it grows as easily as willows, from great stalks or truncheons which should particularly be ordered of a large size, and in early winter. They can be brought from the Black Sea as easily as cord-wood, packed in moss, and like so many nursery trees, by which means we should be put in the immediate enjoyment of the expected advantage. "In noticing the productions at an exhibition horticultural, &c., at Moscow in 1853, mention is made of other valuable productions-a particular variety of turnip or colza (navet de der-bend) the seeds of which yield an extraordinary quantity of oil. Might we not expect that from the locality, this is a hardy species of brassica, and suited to our Northern climate? We are extremely in want of a plant both for oil and green fodder for cattle that would stand our severe winters. I hope, therefore, inquiry will be made after this promising Russian or Circas-sian "navet de derbend," which we may infer grows as high as latitude 49 deg. north. same exhibition several other vegetable products were mentioned, such as white and black radishes from the Caucasus, some of which are a full yard in length and are unknown in Among other miscellaneous matter are recorded great roots, three or four feet in length of the statice tatarica, used by the Tartarian tanners under the name of kiame, and contain ing twenty per cent. of its weight in pure tan-nin."—Wash. Union. Mysterious .- Yesterday afternoon the sexton of the City Graveyard discovered a barrel, which had been buried in a revine in the back part of the yard, and which the recent heavy rains had washed so as to expose it to view. The head of the barrel was painted blue, with the words of New York brandy, 41 gallons," upon it. Upon opening, it was found to contain a human being in a state of nudity. Upon further examination it was found to be that of a female, about 22 years of age, and far advanced in pregnancy was of rather low stature and had dark brown hair, done up in two plaits, about 18 inches in length, and tied up on the back part of her head. He lower teeth were short and close-jet, and the two large front teeth were a little apart, and inclined to project outward. The body, from its appearance, had evidently been buried for some time, as it was very much decomposed. There is a mystery surrounding this affair that is hard to unravel. The probabilities are that the woman has been foully dealt with abroad, and shipped to this city, where she was steal hily buried by those who understand the mystery too well.—St. Louis Rep., June 4.

[From the New Orlans papers of the 30th.] LOUISIANA ITEMS .- The Baton Rouge Advo cate of the 28th says: We hear of extensive spontaneous combustion going on in the woods and swamps of the Colliel country in Livingston; also of the fences around plantations in this parish being destroyed by fire. Upon the Collel, we learn, the fire has been raging over a week, burning the green cane and even large trees—the explosion of the cane often being heard for the distance of five miles, more or less, like the continuous roar of musketry.

Brutal Murder.—James B. Buck, a carpenter residing at Centerville, on Tuesday last, caused the death of his young slave, a lad about twelve years of age, by the most inhuman and brutal treatment. It appears that the lad had run away from his master, when he was pursued and caught, knocked down, stamped under the feet of the fiendish monster, and kicked upon the head, breast, and other parts of the body, until he was quite insensible. He was then taken ome and put in chains, and kept through the night, more dead than alive, and the next morning was a lifeless corspe. Buck was arrested, but escaped.

A fireman on the Mary Bess, while near Pattersonville, knocked over the mate, causing his death. He was delivered into the hands of justice.

The Franklin Banner speaks discouragingly

The Plaquemine Sentinel of Saturday last ontains a doleful statement of the effects of the drought. The gardens are literally ruined, vegetables, shrubbery, and all being completeburnt up.

Cholera at Alexandria.—We regret to hear, says the Republican of the 26th, of the prevalence of this fearful scourge in our parish. the plantation of Dr. Sullivan, about twelve miles above town on the river, thirteen deaths have occurred from it, and many more are down with it. We have heard besides, of premonitory symptoms among the negroes on several other plantations on Cottie and Rapides.

The cause of the breaking out of the disease is well known to be absence of good water .-The cisterns are all dry, and of course the mass of the people have to drink river water, that naturally at the present low stage must be impure and unwholesome.

The Homer (Claiborne Parish) Advocate of the 16th inst. says:

Breadstuffs and provisions of all kinds are alarmingly scarce throughout this whole region of country just at the present time. Many families are already beginning to suffer from their inability to obtain corn and bacon at any price. It is rumored, though we can hardly give credit to it, that the people of some of the adjoining parishes south of us are already us ng briar roots as a substitute for bread. Tight times these.

The Harrisonburg (Catahoula Parish) Inde-

endent of Wednesday last says:
We learn that on Sunday the 13th inst., there vas a fine rain in Caldwell and in some parts of Franklin, where not only was it needed for the crops but for the actual use of the inner man. Full and copious showers drenched the thirsty earth for from 12 to 15 hours in many places. This has had the effect of reviving the drooping hopes of the farmers in that section. The late heavy rain above has had no effect on the Ouachita, and it is still receding. The Farmerville (Union Parish) Enquirer, of the 18th inst., says:

We have been visited by a shower of about five hours since our last issue, and it appears to have been general. The prospects at present for good crops, both of corn and cotton, never were better in Union parisk at this season of the year. The corn crop locks remarkably well, and seems not to have suffered for the want of rain. The greatest complaint we hear of cotton is. that it had not come up well, but since the rain it is springing up equal to candidates before a nominating convention. The Natchitoches Chronicle, of the 19th, orts no improvement in the weather. There had been rain in the neighborhood, but none at Natchitoches.

BUSINESS AT THE SUSPENSION BRIDGE .- A Niagara Falls correspondent of the Buffalo Republic writes to that paper as follows under date of May 23:

The business at the suspension bridge is immense. The goods passing over the suspension bridge for the month ending May 5, were valued by custom rules at ten millions of dollars Forty-five trains of cars for passengers and freight arrive at the bridge daily upon the different roads. Yesterday, for instance, to show you the travel over the roads, seventy-one loaded passenger cars arrived at the bridge. partures were about the same.

RUSHTON, CLARK, & CO.'S GENUINE

Cod Liver Oil. FOR CONSUMPTION, SCROFULA, &c.

THE late firm of Rushton, Clark, & Co. being disselved by the Death of W. L. Rushton (the only Rushton ever connected with the firm), THEIR GENUINE COD LIVER OIL will in future be prepared only by HEGEMAN, CLARK & CO., surviving partners and sole successors. It was MR. CLARK who went to Newfougdland to superintend its manufacture, and he is the only Druggist who ever went from the U. S. for that purpose, and as he will continue his supervision of that branch of our business, we will warrant our OIL PURE and GENUINE. As success in its use depends upon its purity he particular to see that the signature of HEGEMAN, CLARK, & CO., or RUSHTON, CLARK, & CO., is over the cork of each bottle. Hundreds of persons who had been using the Oil of other makers without success have been restored to health by the PURE OIL of OUR MANULACTURE. Be particular in ordering to specify HEGEMAN, CLARK, & CO., as it was Mr. Clark and not Rushton who has superintended its manufacture; and since Mr. Rushton's death there has been a Rushton's Oil introduced which is not in any way connected with Rushton, Clark, & CO., the only representatives of that firm being

SPRING AND SUMMER DRY GOODS.

EVENING BULLETIN

We copy the following from the Louis ville Democrat. The gentlemen engaged in the "Northern Coal Mining Company" are enterprising and reliable. Their plan of operations should commend their scheme to our citizens:

The "Northern Coal Mining Company" has been organized, with a capital of $300,000, and has purchased the original Peach Orchard mines, has purchased the original Peach Orchard mines, on Big Sandy river, at Prestonsburg, Ky., together with all the improvements, consisting of steam, saw, and grist mill, boat-yard, storehouse, about forty dwelling-houses, out-houses, &c.; also the Thibbal's survey, adjoining the original property. The Company is now in active operation, and has expended in the purchase of the mines and improvements over $60,000, and, with their prompt facilities, can make and and, with their prompt facilities, can make and load two boat-loads of coal, of 10 000 bushels each, per week, making over 1,000,000 bushels per annum. This can be increased, if desired, to more than double that amount, by increasing the force and erecting one more incline house, leading from the bank to the river, which is about 80 feet. In front of the property purchased by the company is one mile of deep water, perfectly safe for storing loaded boats at all stages and seasons. The expense of delivering the coal in this market is as follows:

Expense of running 20,000 bushels coal from mines to Louisville $197.50, or less than 1c per bush, Say.

Insurance, say 5 per cent on value of 20,000 bush coal at 5e per bush, is $50, or 3/c per bush....

Provisions for crew per trip...

Wear and tear of line and incidentals...

Making the cost of the coal in Louisville 43d

50 00 34

The estimates above are based upon the actual expenses, as the company are now paying. The only item in which there can be any deviation is in the insurance, which experience alone of a series of years can determine.

Neither the officers nor superintendents of this company, the carpenter or s'orekeeper, have salaries, they all being interested in the opera-tions of the company. This feature will not only save a large expense usually incurred in corporations, but will insure the faithful performance of duty on their part, as their interests are identified with the interests of the company.

It will be observed from the above estimate that the cost of delivering one million bushels per annum in the city of Louisville will be $47,-500. The value of the same delivered in Louisville, at 10 cents per bushel, would be $100,000, showing a net profit to the company of $52,500 per annum. The actual amount required to carry on the operations of the mines will not exceed a capital of $150,000, including pur-chase of property, laying in stock of lumber for boats, goods for the store, reserving a fund for the purpose of holding coal when necessa-ry, and for all contingencies, purchase of lumber,

The Northern Kentucky Coal Mining Company propose to receive subscriptions in Louis-ville for a portion of their capital stock, and bind themselves to deliver in any part of the corpora-tion of Louisville one hundred bushels of coal per annum at 10 cents per bushel, for every share of $50 each subscribed, and will always reserve coal enough, let the price be what it will, to supply the stockholders. This alone will insure the party owning the stock eight per cent. per annum interest on his investment—the difference between the lowest price at which coal can be purchased, say at 14 cents per bushel, and the price it is proposed to be delivered at, say 10 cents. In addition to which, the stockholders will be entitled to a pro rata dividend upon their stock out of the net profits of the Company.

The quality of the coal all are familiar with who used the Peach Orchard coal some four years ago. There has not been any in this market since that period. The coal for ordinary fuel purposes and steam is superior to any coal in use—for blacksmithing purposes it is not as well adapted as Pittsburg.

Mr. J. J. Tranchant, of this city, is the pre-long, and know him to be a practical coal man, no speculative views in reference to with This is no bubble, enterprise. no scheme of speculating financiers, but a real and wor, by enterprise, and we most hearti-ly recommend it to the confidence of our citizens, and with it the success which it well merits, and which we feel assured will at-

FURTHER FROM CALIFORNIA. dence of the N. Y. Journal of Commerce.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 9, 1855. The Pacific mail steamer Sonora arrived here at 5 o'clock P. M., May 1st. The news brought by her of the failure of Page & Bacon, of St. Louis, created a profound sensation throughout our community. Among others who entered the Sankers' office, was a poor woman who held a certificate of deposit for $1,800. She insisted upon its immediate payment, stating that she had been a heavy loser by the failure of Adams & Co., and she was determined to have her money before leaving that night. Her cries and sobs elicited the sympathy of a gentleman present, who offered to pay the debt himself, and drew his check on another bank. This she re-The result was, she stayed in fused to take. the office until, by her importunity, the teller was forced to open the vault and pay her the hard dollars, when she took her departure. The cashier of the American theater was on the wharf at the moment of the steamer's arrival, and hearing that Page & Bacon had failed in St. Louis, rushed up the street at the rate of 2:40, and went into the banking house of Page, Bacon, & Co. (who had not themselves heard the news), and he made such representations that they consented to cash his check for about $10,000, though after bank hours; and thus he saved his "bacon" by being a "fast man" for

During the night many attachments were served on Page, Bacon, & Co., and by the break of day the sheriff succeeded in getting the cash for the sum of $40,000. At nine o'clock (the usual banking hour), the doors of the banking house were partially opened, to admit one at a time of the immense crowd in attendance; and cashes door partially opened for eggess. It time of the immense crowd in attendance; and another door partially opened for egress. It was soon apparent that the immediate friends and patrons of the house were the ones to be benefitted by this unexpected and unwarranted opening of the doors; after it was known that the partner in St. Louis (Henry D. Bacon) had made a full assignment of their effects, and that the opening could not be otherwise than temporary. However, the bank was opened, and the few who were privileged to enter, came out with well filled bags, and not a few, with their ten and fifty thousands, who had made large de-posits to help them at the start. We noticed the agents of the P. M. Steamship Company particularly active in removing their deposits, amounting to about $76,000; also the agent of the Nicaragua Transit Company, $46,000, and others well known in the city as fast and firm friends of the house. We were glad, however, to see that the women were generally favored, and were allowed admittance at the side door, not even excepting two old colored women, who managed to get out well filled stockings of gold.

Wells, Fargo, & Co. succeeded in getting out their exchanges, which nearly cleaned them out of gold and silver. One bag of $200, consisted of 3, 5, 6, and 10 cent pieces. The next man, who presented his check for $900, was a cartman, who had one hundred dollars offered him by the owner, if he would go in and draw the money. He went at once to the side door, and by paying a fee of $20 got in. The teller paid him on account thirty-four dollars, saying that was all; but to be sure of it, the cartman went behind the counter, and into the vault, and being satisfied that it was all, departed The next and only applicant inside the door, was a woman holding and presenting a check for $200. Mr. Francis W. Page told her that the money was all gone; but in the fullness of his heart pulled out his gold watch and chain, and told her to take that, as her security, which he would eventually redeem. This she took and departed. On closing the doors at precisely 12 o'clock, there was no disturbance, although the crowd was great. Quietly and silently they all dis-persed, and the iron doors remain to this day closed, the glory of the house having departed. The banking house of Page, Bacon, & Co., heretofore considered invulnerable, has failed and creditors have already attached property to more than four times the present market value.

There must be considerably over one million of drafts in transit to the Atiantic, many of which, no doubt, will be returned under pro-

The amount of attachments issued within 24 hours after the arrival of the steamer, was about $250,000—the most of which were paid

The amount of coin paid out on their third fi-nal run, was about $400,000 in San Francisco, and $200,000 in Sacramento. The crowd, endeavoring to force or press an entrance to the bank, was very great, and we saw many a stout and stalwart man sink down exhausted. Others again presented the appearance of drowned men, with white and purple faces, the sweat pouring out in streams from every pore. All this, to say nothing of torn garments; but what was worse than all, not one in ten reached even the threshold of the door, and were doomed to utter disappointment and des-

We will give Page, Bacon, & Co. credit for one thing. They preferred to pay off their friends during regular banking hours, and not as others have done, in the silent hours of the night.

Departure of Col. Walker .- The brig Vesta Capt. Eyre, with Col. Walker's company, for Nicaragua, sailed for Realejo, on Thursday

We have no special regret at the departure of these restless spirits. They never would have been contented to remain with us very long without projecting some ventursome scheme. The chief members of the party have always considered it their mission here to extend the area of freedom on the Pacific—to carry deliverance and liberty to the benighted inhabitants of Spanish America.

The expeditionists, numbering fifty-six, all told, were armed to the teeth, each man having been provided with two six-shooters, a bowie knife, and a Mississippi rifle, which are considered the best tools for the development of the agricultural resources of the republic of Nica-

Business generally for the past week has been inactive, although a good many goods are being shipped off daily to the interior.

Our auction marts are crowded with Chili and domestic flour; cargo after cargo is offered un-der the hammer, to be sold to the highest bidder. The lowest sale of a good article of superfine has been at $5 50 per barrel. Only half the parcel offered was sold, the balance withdrawn. Several of our large hardware dealers are selling off their entire stock of shelf goods, &c., under the hammer. These extensive sales are advertised to come off this week, which, judging from a similar sale effected last week, will average over 37½ to 40 cents on the dollar of Eastern cost.

HORRIBLE TRAGEDY IN LEONARD STREET.— Suicide of a Disappointed Lover.—Last evening about seven o'clock, a most distressing case of suicide occurred in the house of Cinderella Marshall, No. 54 Leonard street. At this hour, Thomas Bailey Russum, formerly of San Fran-cisco, blew his brains out with a pistol—the cause, refusal of a girl in this house As far as we have been able to ascertain, the facts of the case are these:

On the above evening the deceased visited Miss Marshail's for the purpose of seeing this girl, with whom he had fallen desperately in love. He entreated her to leave the life she was following, and join her hand with his in mar-riage, but she firmly refused, for reasons best known to herself. The love-stricken man then became much excited, and threatened, if she did not instantly promise him her hand in wedlock, he would blow his brains out, at the same time drawing a pistol from his pocket.

The threats of suicide so alarmed the lady of the house that she sent across the street to the Fifth ward station-house for the police to come and take Russum away. Capt. Carpenter, who was in the station-house at the time, instantly accompanied the messenger, and, on going up stairs, saw the deceased standing in the middle of the room, where the young woman was talking with him, with a pistol in his hand. Capt. Carpenter immediately approached him, and in a conciliatory tone remarked: "Give me the pistol and come along with me to the stationhouse, where we will settle this matter after talking it over." Russum quietly handed him he weapon, and in a resigned manner proceeded to follow Capt. Carpenter down stairs.

Not thinking for a moment that the wretched man had another pistol in his possession, Capt. Carpenter went down stairs first, while Russum followed close behind him, apparently satisfied to go to the station-house. However, at the bottom of the stairway, and when about two or three steps from the hall landing, Russum suddenly pulled out a second pistol, and, placing the muzzle of the weapon close up to his ear, discharged the contents into his brain. The scene that followed may be better imagined than described. The unfortunate man, all covered with blood, instantly fell headlong to the floor, and there for a few moments lay con-vulsed in death.

This horrible tragedy is tinged with romance. The suicide occupied a high position in the city of San Francisco, where he formerly held the office of Register. There he left a wife and two children, and came on to New York with ample means to defray his expenses here during his stay, which was meant to have been short. While in New York he boarded at the Carlton House—lived rather extravagantly, and by some mischance was brought in contact with a girl boarding at Cinderella Marshall's, of very cap-tivating and pleasing manners. With her he became deeply enamored, and so deep was his love for her that he offered her his hand in mar-His offer was refused, for what reasons we could not learn, a deep melancholy seized upon the rejected woer, and he determined on committing suicide, and thus end all his trou-bles. To this end he, on the 21st of April last purchased a vial of landanum, and proceeded to the residence of the captivating woman, and there told her his intentions if she did not a ree to the propositions he had previously made. His arguments in favor of marriage were scouted at, which had such an effect upon his mind that he instantly, in presence of his "evil star," swallowed the entire contents of the bottle.

Medical aid was procured, and Russum was conveyed in an insensible condition to the Carlton House. Here, after lingering between life and death for two days, he ecovered from the deadly effects of the poison, but seemed quite disappointed at the result of his attempt at suicide, and even on his sick bed declared that as soon as an opportunity would offer would commit self-destruction.

His friends reasoned with him on his foolish course of conduct, but he was deaf to all their entreaties, and would listen to no alternative save death or marriage with the woman he

As a determination to commit suicide was evinced, his friends thought the most proper course to pursue would be io send the infatuated man to the lunatic asylum on Blackwell's Island.

Russum was conveyed there about a month ago, and was treated for disease of the mind. How he got from the lunatic asylum and arrived in this city a few days ago has not yet been ascertained, but it is thought that his friends, thinking he had got over the mad fit, removed him, not supposing that he would make a second attempt at suicide.

His deep love for this woman had not abated, notwithstanding her peremptory refusal of his reverses that seemed to come between him and the object of his affections. His visit to the courtezan last evening, his final offer, his refusal his suicide, and the shocking scene that was then enacted, close this fearful drama.

The deceased was a man about 40 years of age, and was more than ordinarily handsome; about six feet high, of dark compexion, and had black hair and moustache. He is, we understand, a native of Baltimore.
